

of Madrid 28 new cases and 7 deaths were reported, Aug. 1st, and in the Province of Madrid, outside of the city, 49 new cases and 14 deaths. Twenty bodies lay unburied in the cemetery outside of the town, the Police Cordons around the infected houses preventing people from obtaining burial licenses. The lower classes manifest the greatest hostility to the official doctors and pallbearers. The epidemic is spreading to all the northern provinces.

A Paris despatch of July 31st says the cholera is developing alarmingly in Marseilles, Lyons and elsewhere in the south of France.

From Madrid it is reported the cholera has broken out on the French frontier. One-fourth of the inhabitants of Montenegro, in Serbia, died of cholera during ten days. The survivors fled, with the exception of one Gen. d'Arms, who remained to bury the bodies of the victims. The credits voted for the work of combating cholera throughout Spain are exhausted and the Government will at once convoke a State Council to demand further cholera credits. Recent violent storms have duplicated the mortality from cholera and raised the ratio of deaths 33 percent.

The provincial Italian Liberal Associations are organizing volunteer corps to go to Spain and assist the people in the cholera-stricken regions. The movement is spreading and becoming important, and donations are flowing in from all parts of Italy.

A REVOLT IN SPAIN.

Madrid advices of July 29th say the people of Huesca, the capital of the province of Huesca, have risen in revolt against the execution of the Excise law. Yesterday's rising was serious, and the enraged people attacked the edifice of the Excise Collector and burned it to the ground.

Senor Castelar, the Republican leader, is making a tour of Galicia and his reception by the people thus far has been enthusiastic. The Government has prohibited the holding of banquets or serenades in his honor.

Sir Moses Montefiore, the Jewish centenary philanthropist, is dead.

THE AFGHAN DISPUTE.

St. Petersburg correspondence says the English, after establishing at Port Hamilton a number of coal depots, have raised forts and laid a cable between Quelpaert and an island of the Yang-tse-Kiang. Three Russian men-of-war, stationed in the waters of Quelpaert, failed to observe the laying of the cable.

It is reported, and generally credited, that Prince Bismarck has suggested that Zulfikar Pass be made neutral, thus solving the difficulty between England and Russia in regard to its possession. British military experts ridicule this scheme as impracticable.

The British Government is represented as being loyally desirous of carrying out their pledge, when taking office, of carrying forward negotiations for peace on the lines established by Lord Granville.

The Czar and his advisers are said to be convinced it would be a much more risky business to exasperate England now than it was last March, both on account of the return of the war party to power and of the friendship of Germany toward the present British Government.

Pan-Slavist societies are trying to inflame Russian public opinion against England.

Lord Salisbury has agreed to the request of De Staal, the Russian Ambassador, to suspend negotiations in relation to the Afghan boundary question until De Giers obtains the report of the topographic survey, which has been ordered at Zulfikar pass.

In a recent durbur the Ameer of Afghanistan advised his people to cultivate the friendship of England, and said it would be a sad day for them if they ever came under "the tyrannical rule of Russia."

A Paris paper has a sensational despatch from St. Petersburg saying that war between England and Russia is certain directly after the elections in England.
